THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

In the Gospel of this Sunday, Jesus warns us not to be like the scribes who walk about in flowing robes, who love to be greeted and acknowledged in the marketplace and see the prime places at banquets, and in the synagogue when they come for worship. Their top motivation in life is to gain attention and create an impression in public. Jesus condemns them for making a show of lengthy prayers while at the same time exploiting widows, the most vulnerable people in the community at the time.

The scribes are the equivalent of those who wallowed in class distinction in this country in the past. We are not as conscious of class distinction nowadays. That is not to say that it does not exist in certain areas of life at present. All we need do is put to ourselves the question: "Do I consider myself superior to any person or group of people in my community?" If the answer is "yes" then there are a number of considerations that come to mind. We are all equal in God's eyes. All of us are the children of God and created in his image and likeness. None of us is junk in God's eyes. We should never consider ourselves or anyone else in that light.
